

LAB 1 Appendix

1 Bonus

- i. It's so inconvenient that you have to copy your executable from your host computer to the development board. As a result, your work here is to use the RS-232 interface to transfer files from/to your embedded system. Though you can find some tools that have been made online, your board is not allowed to connect to the Internet in all progress. You will get bonus points only if your board is disconnected all the time.
- ii. Please try to test the system performance by any method you know and explain it.